CONSPIRACY ENDS PRESS FREEDOM

'BLACKOUT' PLANNED ON MUGGINGS

by a Special Correspondent, a prominent journalist on a well-known newspaper.

ON OCTOBER 17th, one hundred and fifty journalists, newspaper proprieters and Black Communists assembled at the Kenilworth Hotel, Bloomsbury, to work out new ways of censoring the press and thrusting unwanted Blacks into the newspaper business.

The conference was called jointly by the National Union of Journalists and the Community Relations Commission, and organised by Lionel Morrison, a light-skinned Cape Coloured, who is chairman of the NUJ's Race Relations sub-committee. But just in case anything should go wrong, Mark Bonham-Carter the Chairman of the Community Relations Commission, was also on hand.

The delegates listened politely enough to the selection of shop-window Blacks who were wheeled out for the occasion, and were even broad-minded enough to giggle with mirth when one Black was clever enough to insult them by saying that Blacks wrote much better English. However, there were more than a few puzzled expressions when the same speaker, Sam Uba, a sub-editor on The Times, pointed out that Asians did not count as 'Blacks'.

Later on an Asian speaker was so incoherent that most delegates were obliged to follow his speech from the seminar notes, and a wealthy Kenyan Asian youngster from the Middlesex County Times was so garbled that he had to be wound up by the Chairman. None of the delegates queried his assertion that there was so much discrimination around that he had had to get his start in journalism through the 'unconventional' channel of the Trotskyite Workers Press.

However, the real nitty-gritty of the discussion came when several of the newspaper proprieters and editors gave their suggestions for 'improving' the media's attitude to race. Jim Rose, the Chairman of Penguin Books and a former Editorial Director of the Westminster Press combine, put forward the idea that the newspapers themselves should deliberately sponsor Blacks to study journalism at Harlow College of Journalism. (One of the principal lecturers at Harlow is Roger Protz, the discomforted one-time editor of Socialist Worker.) This suggestion was heartily endorsed by Bonham-Carter, who promised to organise a meeting of editors as soon as possible.

CENSORSHIP

The only ideas that were actually challenged and debated were the proposals that newspapers should censor and suppress articles which might have an adverse effect on race relations. The editor of the South East London Mercury Roger Norman, whose wife is a Negress, stated that he already did censor mugging articles and the like. However, the Father of the Chapel (chief stop steward) at the Mercury stood up and explained to the meeting that the journalists at the paper were most unhappy with this situation, and had already threatened industrial action if articles continued to be deliberately suppressed. (Needless to say, this was one industrial dispute where the executive of the NUJ were backing the editor against the workers.)

The only editor to oppose this censorship was Max Wall, of the South London Press. For his principled stand, Mr. Wall was continually insulted, attacked and interrupted

Censorship waste of time

LIBRARIES in the London Borough of Lambeth have banned Britain First from their newspaper racks. Though no explanation has been given for refusing to take the paper even as a gift, it is quite obviously part and parcel of the Establishment's campaign to prevent the voice of British Nationalism from being heard by the British People.

Faced with economic crisis and a worsening racial situation, the Establishment is terrified that it will lose its grip and that more and more people will turn to the National Front — the only party which understands Britain's problems and has policies for their solution.

Unperturbed by the ban, National Front Lambeth Branch members do a brisk trade selling Britain First in Streatham.

NATIONAL FRONT A.G.M. DECLARES:

"KILL THE BILL!"

FIGHT THE GOVERNMENT'S NEW RACE LAWS

by RICHARD LAWSON

OVER 800 National Front members assembled at their party's annual general meeting voted unanimously to fight the Government's proposed new race laws. By passing the motion which incited "all Britons to put their own countrymen before immigrants in housing, employment, education, welfare and social services," the members were collectively and deliberately breaking the existing Race Relations Act and challenging the Government to take action against the whole assembly. It is in this mood that the National Front will escalate the fight to save Britain from being reduced to a multi-racial slag heap.

INSIDE: The National Front A.G.M. votes unanimously to resist the Government's proposed new Race Relations Bill. The real workers, whether blue or white collar, are united in their determination to preserve the British way of life. (Photo: Les Newman)

Proposing the motion the National Front's Activities Organiser, Martin Webster, said that with the worsening racial situation there may come a time when people will decide that "they no longer need a political party — they need an army!"

If it was right to have fought to preserve our national freedom and identity in two world wars then "it is right that we should be prepared to fight and die for these things now and in the future".

These declarations met with rapturous applause from all parts of the hall, signifying a refreshing renewal of comradeship and determination to carry on the struggle to deliver our country from the alien conspiracy that enslaves it.

Regardless of the Government's attempts to suppress our freedom of speech, and regardless of Establishment interests subsidising Red mobs in order to intimidate us, we will not be silenced and we will not be intimidated.

Every new attack that our internationalist enemies perpetrate on the British people and on the British Nationalist movement, will simply spur our determination to fight and overcome the mortal enemies of our Race and Nation!

Britain First

No. 34 November/December 1975

Editor: Richard Lawson

Editorial Office: 50 Pawsons Road, Croydon, Surrey, CRO 2QF.

Britain First supports the views of the National Front editorially but is printed, published and distributed independently of the National Front by Britain First Press.

The views expressed in Britain First are the views of the Editor and the named contributors and should not necessarily be taken to be the official views of the National Front.

The appearance of any advertisement in Britain First is not necessarily indicative that the Editor has any knowledge of, interest in or support for the product, service, organisation or function advertised.

Many aspects of immigration are, to say the least, distasteful to the British population. Our anger, however, should not be directed towards immigrants but to the politicians who allowed or encouraged the problem. Race hatred is counter-productive and no sympathy can be extended to those who incite it.

EDITORIAL

MOST National Front members undoubtedly hoped that our last Annual General Meeting would indeed put an end to the controversy over our party's Constitution which has wasted so much of our time, energy and expense over the last year.

Alas this seems not to be the case. In an Editorial written by John Tyndall in the last issue of his privately owned magazine, Spearhead, he attacked Britain First, the National Front publication, implying that it is Communist because it does not share Spearhead's obsession with blindly following the alien 'Leader' cult, but takes pride in encouraging the native British trait of thinking for oneself.

It is in fact the Communists who promote 'Leader' figures as is exemplified by the cults of Marx, Engels, Lenin, Trotsky, Che Geuvara and Mao Tse-Tung.

I am sure that all real British Nationalists will join Britain First in declaring that unlike the Communists we are not going to go through years of blood and struggle just to see the present Establishment replaced with a new collection of self-appointed 'Leader' figures.

Ship brokers going broke?

ALL IS NOT well in the ship speculation business, it seems. Only a couple of years ago it was possible for 'shipping companies' which existed on headed notepaper only, to order oil tankers at a fixed price and then when the ship was ready to be launched some 18 months later, the vessel would be sold off at double the cost, thanks to spiralling inflation and consistant demand for bigger and better vessels.

Now the situation has done a complete turnaround. World demand for oil has dropped so drastically in the past year that now more than sixty super tankers are laid up in various ports around the globe.

This has meant that the ship speculators who have already placed orders for more ships are now left with a liability on their hands rather than a potentially highly profitable asset. The scramble to drop these hot potatoes has meant that many yards, including several in Britain, have been left holding the baby.

Only a few weeks ago on Tyneside the 261,000 ton oil tanker Tyne Pride was launched without champagne, ceremony or enthusiasm. Nobody in the Swan Hunter yard is saying what the vessel actually cost to build, but it is now up for sale with a price tag of £13m. (o.n.o.). The order was placed by a company called Swan Maritime, which although part-owned by Swan Hunter themselves, is controlled by an Israel-based group known as Maritime Fruit Carriers. MFC's joint managing directors are Yaacov Meridor and Mila Brener, who in the early 1950's had both been engaged in anti-British terrorist activities. Brener was a gun runner and Meridor deputy commander of the Irgun.

However, past differences were swept under the carpet when Brener and Meridor arrived on the depressed British ship-building scene two years ago and splashed out orders worth £500 million to yards around the country. Nobody knew much about them, but yard managers were so relieved to have their order books full that they neglected to question whether MFC could actually pay for the ships when they were ready to be launched. In fact the MFC company had capital of only $31 million, but its borrowings had escalated to $250 million and were rising fast. As Mila Brener told Forbes magazine in 1972, "We managed to create capital without having it. That is our special talent, more than shipping or any other business."

Times have now changed so radically that the Israelis are now trying to cancel out on all their orders and leave the British yards and the government to pick up the pieces. Twelve of the ships on Swan Hunter's books are MFC orders. (Three others are booked to Nikreis Maritime, a mysterious outfit with Soviet connections based in the exotic 'off-shore' location of the Cayman Islands.) Agreement has already been reached between Swan Hunter, the Government and the Israelis that if the remaining ships are cancelled, then the Government will step in to finance at least two tankers from the Exchequer. But since there is no longer any demand for these ships, and tanker values are going down, this will mean that even if the tankers are actually sold when they are completed, the taxpayer will have to make up the substantial difference between their cost and their selling price.

Over at Harland & Wolff's yard in Belfast, three out of the six orders which were placed by MFC have been cancelled by the yard, much to the Israelis' relief. This was because H&W anticipated making a substantial loss on their construction, due to fixed-price contracting. The future of the remaining three orders is also in doubt, but it is possible that as on Tyneside, the UK government will step in to finance their construction, to offset the chronic unemployment which plagues both Northern Ireland and the North-East.

WESTMINSTER COUNCIL: 'GOOD AS GOLD'

WHEN Frank Porter investigated why the new street lights outside his home in Ridinghouse Street, W.1., were not working, he found to his amazement that there was no wiring in them.

Being a ratepayer and a responsible citizen he promptly phoned the Council to tell them of his 'non discovery'. "Good God, Sir, this is outrageous, we will send someone down immediately," said an anxious Council official.

So Frank went home to his 'lights' and waited, and sure enough, within the hour a Council van pulled up and there was a man with a ladder and – a pot of paint and a paintbrush. Frank enquired if the man had been sent by the Council, and was told: "Yes, an emergency job", and the man began to paint the lampost gold.

"But it doesn't need painting, it needs wiring," said Frank.

"Look mate I'm a painter, not an electrician, you'd better get onto the council," which Frank did. And now, at time of writing, Frank's street has nice gold lamposts, with no wiring.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

I was surprised to see the advert for Ian Greig's Subversion in the last edition of Britain First. Before the Monday Club became moribund Greig was one of its leading lights. Unlike many of the Club's ordinary members, Greig was strongly opposed to the National Front.

An ex-Monday Clubber.

Britain First was asked to run this advert by Nationalist Books. As pointed out in the ad. Nationalist Books market a wide range of publications including ones which are opposed to the National Front's point of view.

We are never-the-less well aware of the views of Mr. Greig and his associates.

We understand that it was Ian Greig who introduced the Zionist 62-Group agent, Lesley Wooler, into the Monday Club in order to root out National Front sympathisers.

Greig's Zionist connections are further cemented through Max Hanna, with whom Greig shared his home at 30 Ennismore Gardens, S.W.7, until Hanna left to get married.

Hanna was a member of Sydney University Fabian Society prior to taking up a job as a marketing research executive with the 'Capitalist-Socialist' International Publishing Corporation, and becoming a dual member of the Monday Club and the Bow Group.

Writing in the Marxist publication, Race Today, Hanna stated that the Monday Club's "obsession with race and immigration is thoroughly alien to the tolerant, paternalistic and intellectual traditions of British Conservatism." Shock! Gasp! Horror!

Some time later Hanna wrote a booklet on race relations for the Bow Group and 'modestly' reviewed it himself in the Zionist Jewish Chronicle.

Like Geoffrey Stewart-Smith's East-West Digest for which Greig regularly writes, Subversion closely follows the C.I.A.-inspired and financed line on Communism carefully overlooking the real forces behind it. Providing we appreciate this there is no harm in reading it.

We should always remember that the enemies of true Nationalism are just as linked with the orthodox 'Right' as they are with the 'Left'. For this reason Britain First has always taken a strong line of opposition to the antics of people like General Sir Walter-Walker and his 'flash in the pan' organisation, Civil Assistance. Readers may remember that the 'security clearance' demanded by Walter-Walker for joining his crackpot group of reactionary Tories was nothing less than the possession of a copy of East-West Digest! – The Editor

Crown Agents go bust

THE CROWN AGENTS, set up to promote overseas development, are now technically insolvent and are to be brought under full Government control, after a history of 140 years independence.

Although the main function of the Agents always used to be purchasing and recruiting for overseas governments, in recent years they have become deeply involved in fringe secondary banking and loans to property companies, some of which have collapsed.

The Agents had £200 million invested in property, including the Stern property empire, which collapsed at the beginning of 1974. They had a large stake in London & County Securities which was wound up in March this year, despite having had the backing of Jeremy Thorpe (director), G. Caplan (chairman) and R. Patel (deputy chairman).

The Agents also got their fingers burnt with the Burston Group of merchant banks, which collapsed in February, although it too had considerable Establishment support in the form of its deputy-chairman, Sir Bernard Waley-Cohen the one-time Lord Mayor of London and executive member of the British Field Sports Society.

Cowardly attack on NF activist

DEREK DAY, tennants' troubleshooter and Chairman of Hackney Branch of the National Front, was sitting indoors in his Hoxton flat when he heard his seventeen-year-old son shouting for help. Derek rushed out to see seven members of the International Socialists kicking him.

As Derek arrived on the scene the Reds all turned on him, threw him over a wall, and held him down while one of them pushed his thumbs into his eyes in order to gouge them out.

Derek yelled for help and two friends came to his rescue. The I.S. attackers then fled dropping some leaflets and some copies of Socialist Worker.

Derek's right eye was badly swollen and bloodshot and he had to have treatment at Moorfields Eye Hospital. Derek is a born fighter, however, and is now more determined than ever to work for the National Front.

The International Socialists have a particularly twisted hatred for Derek because of all the work he has done for local tenants. Interest in 'community politics' is an area closely coveted by the I.S. who view it as an easy opportunity to exploit suffering for their own ends of establishing a Communist dictatorship.

For those who attack N.F. members the day of retribution will come.

HAIN A PAID INFORMANT

PETER HAIN, Young Liberal troublemaker and advocate of so-called 'non-violent' attacks on South African sporting fixtures, was recently accused of stealing £490.

What is not so well known is that the Home Office have been paying him over £22 a time to lecture to senior policemen about his views, and that he has been doing this for the past two years.

Zionists step up war on British Nationalism

A SEMINAR has been sponsored in Manchester by the Zionist Association of Jewish Ex-Servicemen and Women and B'nai B'rith – a secret Zionist masonic organisation which works in close co-operation with Ajex.

Included on the agenda of the seminar was a review of the current situation with specific reference to the level of racialism in the present economic climate and the outlook for the immediate future, intelligence work regarding so-called "extremist" groups, public and private activities designed to dilute their effectiveness, co-operation with other bodies in combatting non-Zionist racialism, and the use of the media and speakers who are at the Zionists' disposal.

A recent Zionist Federation conference expressed profound distress at the growth of "fascist movements in Britain" and resolved to play a full part in efforts to "remove such a threat to the well-being of the Anglo-Jewish community."

The reference to "fascist movements" is a meaningless smear which Zionists apply to all other Racial Nationalists except themselves. In fact the Zionist Federation conference was the victim of an outburst of "fascist" violence from within its own ranks.

Although a motion urging the Israeli Government to "give full recognition to the right to self-determination to the Palestinians" was defeated by a large majority, it so enraged some Herut members present that they eventually got involved in a punch-up with the proposers of the motion. (Herut is an Israeli political party.)

The new chairman of the Zionist Federation is Eric Moonman, Labour M.P. for Basildon and the outgoing chairman of Poale Zion – the Zionist section of the British Labour Party.

The Zionist Board of Deputies, meanwhile, has appointed a senior army officer as director of "security". He will advise Zionist bodies throughout the country "on appropriate measures required", said Mr. Martin Savitt, Chairman of the Board's Defence and Group Relations Committee. If the past history of Israel is anything to go by we can be quite sure that the Zionists view the best form of defence as attack.

All in all Britain seems to be falling more and more under the influence and control of people who regard British affairs as a mere extension of the politics of the Israeli Knesset.

POLICE CHIEF SPEAKS OUT

A SHARP RISE in the number of muggings in the London Borough of Lambeth has provoked its police chief, Commander Douglas Randall, to speak out on the problem.

For the nine months ending September 30th. there were 411 muggings in the Borough, and 325 of these were carried out by Black youths. This exceeds the total for the whole of last year when there were 248 muggings.

Not only will the total be well above last year's but it is accelerating. In July there were 46 muggings, in August 76 and in September 79.

Commander Randall stated: "Various people have advanced environmental reasons as having helped to create the problem of mugging. But these are vicious little criminals. What have all the people advancing these environmental reasons been doing to solve the problem?"

INADEQUATE PUNISHMENT

At long last someone who actually has to deal with the problem of crime himself has had the guts to stand up and talk some common sense, and we applaud him for it.

Like Commander Randall, the National Front is strongly opposed to the 'liberal' attitude which attempts to upgrade social, at the expense of individual, responsibility for wrongdoing; and which thus results in ludicrously inadequate punishment for some of the worst type of crime, and an ever rising crime rate.

Whereas certain environmental influences may have some effect, the acceptance that everything is determined by environment effectively gives the criminal the right to do anything and then blame it on society. The principle of retribution may seem barbaric to the twisted 'liberal' mind, but it does at least serve the very necessary purpose of discouraging criminal tendencies whatever their origin may be.

Vigilante patrols

THE RESIDENTS of the Stockwell Gardens and Grantham Estates in the London Borough of Lambeth have set up vigilante patrols to protect themselves from the alien crime of mugging.

Local people want the police to patrol the area with dogs because unlike the typical British animal lover, the majority of muggers have a particular fear of dogs not altogether unconnected with the question of racial differences.

The police, however, are too short of dog handlers to patrol the area effectively and this has forced local people to take on the job themselves.

Despite the necessity of taking this action it has met with strong opposition from Supt. Owen Kelly, Lambeth's police Community Liaison Officer, who represents the uniformed wing of the local Race Relations Gestapo, and is quite unpopular with the ordinary local police.

Community Politics

ONE of the most worthwhile examples of spontaneous self-sacrifice on behalf of the local community was recently provided by helpers who volunteered to redecorate the head office of the Wandsworth Council for Community Relations at the end of September.

The volunteers let themselves into the offices at 57 Trinity Road, Tooting, without even being asked, and proceeded to use some handy red and yellow paint in order to give the premises an entirely new psychodelic look.

Unfortunately, the helpers were so exuberant in their desire to make improvements that they accidentally destroyed many of the Council's files. Paint, as well as disinfectant and washing-up liquid, also got poured over furniture.

Despite these slight acts of carelessness the Good Samaritans must have done a really good job, and owing no doubt to their natural selflessness and modesty decided to leave as quietly and as unobtrusively as they had first arrived.

Mr. Gregory Dyke, the WCCR's campaign organiser, only discovered the handiwork later. Totally unappreciative, Mr. Dyke said that he did not know what the motive of the decorators was. We would like to think that it was motivated out of a totally altruistic desire to help the community.

Hullo der neighbour... vote Labour

BRITAIN FIRST has long held the view that Coloured immigrants have been regarded by the Labour Party as vote fodder for its electoral machine.

This view recently received further confirmation from no less an authoritative source than the Community Relations Commission, which stated in a report published in October that without immigrant votes the Labour Party could not have won the last General Election. It appears that our present governing 'red orchestra' has learnt well the dictum attributed to Lenin that the British People would never undertake their own Communist 'revolution', but that this would have to be imported.

According to the C.R.C. report immigrants are distributed in such a way as to significantly affect the voting patterns in at least 59 constituencies and thus the country at large.

One wonders about the motives of the C.R.C. in blandly informing the British People that the little Black tail wags the big White dog. It would certainly appear that the purpose is to point out not how much our immigrant 'guests' have affected past political decisions, but as some sort of a protest that they have not fully realised their potential to wag even harder.

As the most democratic party in the country, the National Front is determined that the White British majority will do the wagging, and as everyone knows one of the functions of tail-wagging is to swipe off parasitic insects – like the 'Race Relations Industry'.

KINGSLEY READ REFUSED LEGAL AID

NATIONAL FRONT Chairman Kingsley Read who is facing a summons at Manchester County Court in an action brought by the Race Relations Board, has been refused legal aid by the Law Society on the grounds that they already consider him guilty of acting unlawfully!

In a statement issued to the press Kingsley Read complained that a man with the personal assets of John Stonehouse could get legal aid but he could not, despite the fact that he is currently unemployed, having lost his last job because of his political connections.

The action stems from a circular letter sent out by Kingsley Read asking residents in the Queen's Park area of Blackburn not to sell their houses to Coloured immigrants.

POINT BLANK

WHILE British textile workers are forced into unemployment, the Labour Party once again is putting its foreign obsessions first. This time Wilson's Government is providing £1,020,000 of our money, half as an interest free loan and half as an outright gift, for the purpose of building a cotton gin in south-west Afghanistan.

THE SO-CALLED 'Human Rights Committee' of the so-called 'United Nations' General Assembly has adopted an Arab resolution equating Zionism (Israeli Nationalism) with "racism".

The reaction was predictable and revealing. Dr. Piero Vinci, the spokesman for the Common Market, said that the Nine wished to co-operate "loyally" with the U.N. in all its projects to eliminate racism and racial discrimination, but that the Community would "have to revise its attitude" if the General Assembly linked Zionism with discrimination.

In other words, the Common Market will do everything to suppress British Nationalism but will treat Israeli Nationalism with a reverential special favour. Aren't the Israelis well off having nine other governments (apart from their own) on their side? We haven't even got one on ours!

BRITISH brains created the Industrial Revolution and placed this country at the head of the world's technical advance. Our Anglo-Celtic ethnic stock is unsurpassed in its intellectual talents, but has been gravely handicapped by a lack of political Nationalism throughout this century. Today our national potential is simply allowed to go to waste.

There are 10,000 empty places in science and engineering at British universities. Meanwhile, 95,209 foreign students were in Britain last year – 12,375 more than in 1973.

THE RED LEFT have been marching recently for 'abortion on demand'. Perhaps we should support their campaign, suggesting that as far as Commies are concerned abortion should not only be freely available but compulsorily backdated by at least one generation.

FORMER Labour M.P. Christopher Mayhew and his co-author Michael Adams have revealed (albeit from an Establishment orientated point of view) some of the vast extent to which T.V., Radio, the Press and Publishing in Britain and the U.S.A. is controlled or influenced by powerful well-placed Zionists.

Their book Publish it not . . . The Middle East Cover-up (Longmans £5.00) is well worth getting to read in conjunction with the Britain First booklet The Nation Wreckers.

THE LABOUR Government through its misnamed Department of Employment is to commission an investigation into "the problems of employment for Coloured and other minority groups" at a cost of £140,000. Not a bad investment for them considering the votes it will buy for Labour at the next General Election.

THE FOREIGN business-dominated European Commission now wants the aerospace industries of the Common Market 'unified'. This may have something to do with the fact that British aerospace exports exceeded £500 million in the first eight months of this year, a £108 million pound increase on the same period last year.

VENEZUELA is a Western-style democracy where electoral pressure to stop the plundering of the country's natural resources has resulted in the nationalisation of the assets of the big multinational oil companies. The new Communist regime in South Vietnam, by way of contrast, is now inviting bids from the oil companies offering them concessions to exploit Vietnam's offshore deposits.

WHEN Councillor Randolph Beresford, the Mayor of the London Borough of Hammersmith, flew out to his hometown in sunny Guyana as a guest of the government there, Hammersmith Council gave him £300 "assistance" out of ratepayers' money. Unfortunately the money was wasted: he didn't take the rest of the Council with him and he came back!

THAT OLD BLACK MAGIC

A JAMAICAN woman living in Bethnal Green, North London, said that she was possessed by Black Magic and was forced by whatever controlled her to go out and smash up her neighbour's property.

Pleading guilty to a charge of criminal damage Mrs. Aitcheson explained: "For the past four years I have been constantly provoked and pestered by my neighbours by what you might call affecting me with Black Magic, causing me grievous pain . . . They have been watching me in the house through the same Black Magic and I have been having no privacy. I have been controlled completely by whoever it is that has me under their control. They tell me what to eat, what not to eat and when to go to work."

WHEN IS A RACE RIOT NOT A RACE RIOT?

POLICE and education authorities are trying to stamp out racial violence amongst school children in Redbridge, East London.

Fights in the streets between school children of different races led to the involvement of older relatives. As a result of this fourth and fifth formers of Loxford High School were lectured to by a police inspector about the deteriorating racial situation.

One parent who took his son to school following the outbreak of trouble was reported as saying that the school "looked like a casualty ward".

The school's headmaster, Mr. Raif Markarian, explained: "I don't really feel this is racial as much as children exasperated by extreme differences." Precisely what he meant by this distinction is not clear.

NOBLE OR SAVAGE?

LONDON Transport Police described how nearly 100 West Indian youths ran riot at Stockwell tube station in October of last year. They were giving evidence at the trial of ten youths at the Old Bailey accused of causing an affray.

One youth pushed a woman passenger against the platform wall and shouted: "White trash". Another youth deliberately bumped into an elderly man with a walking stick, knocked him down and shouted "White shit". A Black friend also turned on the old man saying: "Bow, you White bastard to your Black superior."

OUR 'FRIENDS' IN EUROPE

ONE of the Italian hostages held captive by the three Black Power gunmen in the Spaghetti House Restaurant siege told a reporter:

"Perhaps one thing that saved us was the fact that we were Italians. The gunmen knew it wasn't our fault that we were all in London to earn our living the hard way, far from our homeland."

This Common Market immigrant was obviously suggesting that had the hostages been White Britons then it would somehow have been their "fault".

So much for European solidarity.

TRUE BLUE

MRS. MARGARET THATCHER spoke in Hindustani at a private cocktail party for well-to-do representatives of the Coloured immigrant populations, and promised to appear on the B.B.C. Asian television programme wearing "a peacock blue sari".

This is her first attempt to outbid the Labour Party for the Coloured immigrant vote following the Community Relations Commission report which showed that most Coloured immigrants currently vote Labour.

Chaos in Angola: Lessons for Rhodesia

by PAUL KINGSLEY

IN JANUARY of this year, the Portuguese government decided to set up a transitional government in Angola and gradually hand over power to the three terrorist movements, the MPLA, FNLA and UNITA. November 11th was named as Independence Day. Unfortunately Angola has had a far from smooth transition to independence. Fighting soon broke out amongst the 'liberation movements' and has continued to the present day, so that now Angola is on the verge of civil war.

In May, at least 500 people were killed when the FNLA and the Marxist MPLA clashed in Luanda, Angola's capital. It is believed that up to 1000 may have died. Fighting continued in other parts of Angola until early June, when a further 200 people were killed in the space of a week in Luanda. Mid-July saw another 300 dead and over 1000 injured in Luanda after five days of fierce fighting. So far this year there have been no less than seven ceasefires, but these seem merely to give the various groups a breathing space before they begin to kill off each other (and the population of Angola) with renewed enthusiasm.

The breakdown in communications makes it no longer possible to estimate how many are dying in clashes between the terrorist groups. Hospitals have at times been unable to cope with the numbers of wounded pouring in, and corpses are often left to rot in the streets, especially in the agricultural towns where most of the population has fled. Portugal has 24,000 troops in Angola but they have not been able to keep control. Some troops due to be flown out to Angola from Lisbon have simply refused to go.

Food is extremely scarce in Luanda, where shops have little left to sell. There is plenty of food outside Luanda, but a fuel shortage and the extent of the fighting have prevented it getting through in sufficient quantities. Food convoys have been looted. 14,000 tons of wheat was shipped into Luanda in early August but there was no-one to unload it as the port was paralysed. At times, many parts of Luanda have been without water and uncollected rubbish lines the streets.

The Portuguese have realised that the transitional government is no longer functioning and have taken over administrative control of Angola, although it is not clear what practical difference this has made. The acting High Commissioner, General Ferreira de Macedo has talked of the social and economic collapse of Angola. A year ago the economy was booming. In spite of the troubled state of Angola, the Portuguese recently announced that they will withdraw all their troops by Independence Day.

CANNIBALISM

Over one million people have been displaced from their homes, most of them fleeing from the fighting or looking for food. Those on the move have to put up with murder, arson, rape and looting. The FNLA have accused the MPLA of raping and burning children alive. The MPLA have accused their rivals of cannibalism, saying they have found "hearts, livers and other human organs, bottles of blood and rice mixed with human bones" in FNLA camps.

The situation in Angola has led to a mass exodus of Whites, upon whom the country's prosperity depends. About 100,000 of the 500,000 strong White population have already left, and plans are afoot to evacuate another 300,000 before Independence Day in November. Between 2,500 and 3,000 people a day were expected to be flown out, but fuel shortages have made this impossible. This has led to massive protest rallies by Whites, complaining that they are being evacuated too slowly. Fearful of not getting out in time, a reported 30,000 Whites are making for the safety of South West Africa, which is administered by the Republic of South Africa. British, Canadian and American citizens have all been advised to leave Angola, which seems to be heading for a bleak future. The situation is being aggravated by the Soviets and the Chinese, who are arming rival factions. The main offender, the USSR, has supplied the MPLA with armoured cars, lorries, mortars, rockets, machine guns, rifles, hand grenades and explosives.

LESSONS FOR RHODESIA

The lesson of what has happened to Angola after it was handed over to so-called 'liberation' movements should be heeded by Rhodesia. At the moment Ian Smith is being encouraged to negotiate with 'Black Nationalist' groups like the ANC, ZANU and ZAPU to decide the future of his country. In June, the rival groups, ZANU and ZAPU were engaged in a riot in Highfield African township, which the Rhodesian police force (this is mainly Black)

MPLA:	Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola.
FNLA:	National Liberation Front of Angola.
UNITA:	Union for the Total Liberation of Angola.
ZANU:	Zimbabwe African National Union.
ZAPU:	Zambabwe African Peoples' Union.
ANC:	African National Congress.

was only able to get under control after 11 people had been shot dead. In an ANC meeting (where ZANU and ZAPU were in uneasy alliance), a ZANU executive member was thrown through a window when there was a disagreement. In September, factional fighting broke out amongst ZANU supporters stationed over the border in Zambia. Eleven guerrillas were killed before the Zambian Army restored order. A Zambian soldier was speared to death.

It is clear that should Ian Smith even agree to 'majority rule' (whether this be granted immediately or some time in the future) power would inevitably fall into the hands of terrorists like ZANU and ZAPU, as those are the best organised and most powerful groups militarily. Portugal saw that no other groups but the terrorist organisations could organise a government, and Rhodesia will be driven to the same conclusion. Whether or not that government would be more than just a pantomime is another matter.

ZANU and ZAPU at the moment are enjoying a certain amount of political respectability, but it must never be forgotten just what kind of organisations these are. ZANU and ZAPU are the Communist-trained terrorist groups who have murdered over 300 civilians, mostly Africans, in the past couple of years. Here are just two extracts from the booklet Anatomy of Terror telling of terrorist atrocities: "January 30th, 1974 – Mt. Darwin district. Anna, an innocent woman, whose upper lip was pulled with a pair of pliers and hacked off with a rusty bayonet, by terrorists."

"May 6th, 1974 – Chiweshe area. After assaulting two tribesmen, terrorists stripped an African tribesman Asima, beat him with rifle butts and hacked his feet off with an axe. He was left for dead."

It can be seen from the above that ZANU and ZAPU are quite capable of the savagery of their Angolan counterparts, and would be more than equal to the task of destroying Rhodesia if ever power were handed over to them via a bogus 'majority rule', which is quite meaningless to an African population without political consciousness in the sense that we would understand it. ZANU–ZAPU clashes after 'majority rule' would lead to a White exodus, as in Angola, and thereafter the economy would collapse. In addition, it is certain that those White Rhodesians remaining would put up more of a fight than White Angolans did, bringing the danger of a widespread massacre of Europeans.

SOUTH AFRICAN PRESSURE

Many White Rhodesian politicians see this only too well, and yet the Prime Minister, Ian Smith, has been tempted to take the first steps to disaster by contemplating some sort of agreement with the ANC, the political front for the terrorist groups. Why is this? The main reason seems to be pressure from South Africa. South Africa has decided to 'normalise' relations with Black Africa. To gain Black support to the north, Mr. Vorster has used his influence to push Ian Smith to the conference table. As Rhodesia is economically dependent on South Africa, the pressure Vorster has been able to exert is considerable.

A factor undermining Rhodesia's ability to resist South African pressure is its own political muddle.

The Portuguese in Africa adopted a policy of multi-racialism, encouraging intermarriage and cultural assimilation. Dr. Salazar said in 1967 "Multi-racialism is a Portuguese creation . . . The only probability of success for the new (African) States lies in following those principles of non-discrimination or racial equality which we proclaim and have always practised." South Africa on the other hand has acknowledged differences between ethnic groups and under the policy of separate development devised by Dr. Verwoerd, it has maintained that Blacks and Whites should live in different areas. Gradually it is training Blacks so that they can govern their own people in their own areas.

Rhodesia is poised between these two policies of multi-racialism and racial self-determination. It believes that the vote should be given to all civilized people. The idea is that individual Africans are given the vote when they reach a certain stage of development. The obvious consequence of this policy is that when the African population becomes educated enough it will rule over Rhodesia and hence over White Rhodesians. Ian Smith seems to have set up a 'timetable for majority rule' just as White groups in other parts of Africa have done to their cost. South Africa knows that Whites always lose control of such timetables, and seems to be saying "You've accepted the principle of Black rule, so why not get it over with and have it now?"

Ian Smith, alarmed at the consequences of his own policy, has also made statements to the effect that there will never be majority rule in Rhodesia, hence causing confusion as to exactly what his policy is! The weakness of Rhodesian policy is that it cannot give even limited political power to educated Blacks without putting in danger the White Rhodesian's power over his own affairs. South Africa on the other hand has stated that Blacks will never rule over White South Africans, only over their own people; this means South Africa is able to give power to educated Blacks without threatening the European's position.

SEPARATE DEVELOPMENT

Some far-sighted politicians in Rhodesia have seen this weakness and at a recent Rhodesian Front congress there was a proposal that there should be a confederation in Rhodesia consisting of one White-ruled state and two states ruled by Blacks. The advantage of such an arrangement would be that Rhodesia would not be forced to choose between stifling all Black political aspirations and accepting majority rule. In Rhodesia, as in South Africa, there would be no need to give immediate self-determination to Blacks in their own areas – responsible Africans would be trained for government tasks over a period of time. A Rhodesian policy of separate development would cut a lot of ground from under the terrorist groups; educated Blacks would be encouraged to govern in their own areas rather than take up arms.

Rhodesia's White government has much support amongst the Black population. Blacks have been the greatest victims of terrorism, and have lost confidence in the ANC because of its links with terrorists. Leading members of the ANC have been telling Africans that unless they can produce receipts for ANC contributions they will be killed when the terrorists come. Chief J. S. Chirau, President of the Africans' Council of Chiefs has said that ANC members have been active in recruiting terrorists. It is desirable that Ian Smith should build on this support and start training responsible Africans to rule their own people in their own areas, at the same time taking a firm stand against terrorism and all those who have links with terrorism.

'Majority rule' can only lead to the chaos exemplified so well by present day Angola. The stifling of Black political aspirations would bring the danger that detente-minded South Africa would force majority rule on Rhodesia. The wisest path would be to pursue a policy of separate development. This when seen against the background of 'Right-wing' pressure on Vorster in South Africa to stop 'sacrificing' Rhodesia, would seem the best hope of preserving White civilization north of the Limpopo.

The myth of African Nationalism

by DAVE McCALDEN

THE NATIONAL FRONT, besides being fully dedicated to the cause of Nationalism for Britain, also believes that other nations around the World should be nationalistic and put the interests of their people first. That is why we support the Eastern European people in their struggle to overthrow their Communist masters.

Contrary to what the Internationalists say, Nationalism is not the cause of wars, but is the only peaceful way for nations to co-exist. Under Nationalism, each nation looks after its own people and lets neighbouring nations do the same. Under Internationalism and its twin, Imperialism, one set of people impose their will on others, thus causing friction, resentment and wars.

However, Nationalism can only exist if a nation exists. And a nation can only exist if certain pre-requisites are met. A nation must have its own ethnic identity. It must have a recogniseable culture. And it must usually have its own geographic area of traditional occupation.

But there is one part of the World where national boundaries bear no relation whatever to any of these pre-requisites – the continent of Africa. Africa is divided up into fifty 'nations', some tiny like The Gambia and some vast like Zaire. They are the inheritors of the European Empires, which carved up Africa in the nineteenth century, regardless of ethnic and cultural boundaries. Tribes straddle two or even three states. Some states contain dozens of different tribes, speaking hundreds of different languages and dialects.

Naturally, the emergence of such 'nations' has meant that Africa has been ridden with civil wars and tribal massacres, as one tribe tries to assert its authority over the others.

There is not one independent Black country in Africa that is run on the one-man, one-vote system.

Neither is there one Black country that has escaped civil war or coup d'etat. Some have had them several times over.

Meanwhile in South Africa and Rhodesia, White rule has meant that the Africans are treated respectfully, by respecting their tribal affiliations. South Africa does not try to mix Africans with Indians, or Zulu with Hottentots. The homelands in South Africa are organised along ethnic, tribal lines, and each is to a very large extent autonomous, each tribe being responsible (to a certain extent) for law and order and welfare. The only friction occurs when different tribes are allowed to mix in the cities and mining complexes. But by and large, South Africa is a stable country, unafflicted by the chaos and bloody anarchy that reigns north of the Zambesi.

Surely, therefore, it is time that Black Africa followed the example of South Africa, and re-organised themselves along more realistic, tribal lines. This would mean the dividing up of Black Africa into more than a hundred tribal homelands, but would, in the long run, be the only means of ensuring peace, the preservation of African cultures, an end to corruption, and probably an end to the Communist takeover of Africa.

The African is by no means inclined towards Marxism. In most African languages there is no word for 'work', 'proletariat', 'unemployment' or 'landless'. Communists have only managed to make progress in some parts of Africa by playing off the tribal rivalry which inevitably pertains in these abortive statelets.

Getting Britain First onto the streets

by DON SAYER, Regional Secretary of the N.F. North Lancashire and Cumbria Regional Council.

NATIONAL FRONT activists are out on Saturdays selling Britain First on the streets and in shopping precincts in the North Manchester and Salford East areas, and in Bolton and Bury. Activists have also been to Oldham and Stretford selling Britain First and Spearhead.

One Saturday North Manchester and Salford East activists sold Britain First in Salford Precinct in opposition to sellers of the Morning Star and Socialist Worker, and whilst they only sold an odd one or two, the sales of Britain First were quite brisk.

We enjoy our activity because the people see us doing something positive and on the whole they are very sympathetic. Those who buy from us are obviously interested and the 'follow-up' rate is very good – better than leaflet distribution. It is also more economical on Branch funds as we are making a profit on the activities.

Leading activists in these sales of Britain First include David Smith, Martin Goucher, Martin Lovall, Carl Kukla, Sandra and Susan McKenzie, Barry Bowles, Mrs. McBriar, Marshall Bridge, Chris Thornton and Paul Gee.

These activities only started up recently and are snowballing as other Branches and Groups hear of the success of this activity. I believe there are great possibilities for the future and I look forward to the day when the shopping areas of our cities, towns and villages are covered with N.F. activists selling our literature. This is one of the finest ways of reaching the British People, and it needs encouragement from within the Movement.

Will Britain miss the bus?

SINCE last month's article about the anti-bussing riots in Boston, several readers have asked the Editor not only if we would give more details about the background to bussing in the U.S.A. but if we would examine the prospects for its wider application in Britain.

Bussing isn't exclusive to the United States. It goes on in the London Borough of Ealing, for example, where some 53 large coaches collect 3,000 children from the centre of Southall every weekday morning in order to bus them to primary schools in other parts of the Borough. It costs well over £200,000 a year.

"Children from the host community look at the bus as it reaches the school; it is full of Coloured students and, instead of bridging this gap in the two different communities, it widens it."

– Ajit Rai, President of the Indian Workers' Association.

Southall was once a pleasant 'market town'. Since the early 1960s, however, it has been inundated with countless numbers of Asian immigrants. The influx was first started by the Woolf Rubber Company which – following the passing of the Labour Party's 1948 British Nationality Act – sent agents to India in order to recruit cheap foreign labour instead of paying a decent wage to British workers. The company has since gone bust but the Asians live on.

Thanks to the treason of successive Labour and Tory Governments and the greed of Big Business, Southall is now a foreign town. Its cinemas are all Asian, its shops are mostly Asian and its population is Asian. It is a place of strange dress, strange habbits and strange languages. Even signposts are painted in Asian dialects.

EDWARD BOYLE

Largely because of this massive Asian concentration in Southall, 30% of the school population and 35% of the nursery scool population in the Borough as a whole is comprised of children of immigrant origin.

Bussing in Ealing operates on purely ethnic lines. It was established in 1965 by the then Minister of Education and arch 'liberal' Tory, Edward Boyle. He wanted to see the alien element no more than 30% in any one school. The pure size of the foreign population, however, has since forced this limit up to 40%.

As the bussing only involves very young children and as these are almost all Asians with only a relatively small sprinkling of Negroes, it has not yet provoked the same level of opposition that bussing enjoys in the United States.

Bussing in Southall (Photo: Les Newman)

"There is no real integration taking place . . . we have children being labelled and the tendency is for them to group themselves racially."

– Jimmy Barzey, Secretary of the Afro-Caribbean Association.

What might be described as the 'minority-liberal' coalition is not as doctrinaire in Britain as it is in the United States. Always sensative to the possibility of a backlash from the White British population, the immigrant communities and the Quislings of the Race Relations Industry have come to realise that bussing is counterproductive. Far from expanding its operation they claim to desire its end.

Whether it will be ended or extended remains to be seen. Either way White British people must be prepared to extend the struggle for our national and racial survival.

STOP PRESS

N.F. supporter Ken Merritt won his appeal against conviction for "Threatening Behaviour" when with 30 other N.F. members he battled his way into an N.F. meeting in Oxford last May. Full story by Martin Webster in next issue.

Personal letter to the Editor

THERE ARE certain rumours and allegations circulating in the party attacking the integrity and morality of members of the Directorate and the staff at Head Office, which have no basis of truth in them.

A small group of individuals are co-ordinating these smears for their own personal reasons. These people can best be described as autocratic minded with very little real understanding of British Nationalism and the political philosophy behind it.

There is no doubt that because they cannot have their way, they are totally unprepared to accept democratic decisions of the members or a democratic constitution. They will stoop to the most invidious methods to attack those they see as having different opinions.

To this end they are willing to demoralise and wilfully disillusion the membership.

All I can say to them is, 'If you want a pressure group organisation led on a one-man basis, then you should get out of the National Front and form one, leaving those who understand the real issues to get on unhindered with their job of seeing that the NF eventually obtains the necessary power in Britain to revitalise this nation.'

J. KINGSLEY READ
Chairman, National Directorate

Boston: the background

Judge W. Arthur Garrity, the man who ordered the bussing in Boston.

The buses drive in convoy with an armed escort.

AMERICA'S schools reflect the division of the country's racial groups into their own local communities, that is they tend to be either largely all-White or all-Black. 'Bussing' is a method by which school students are transported to each other's areas so as to achieve a 'racial balance'.

Multiracialists believe that this enforced integration reduces people's racial stereotypes, increases tolerance, and generally improves race relations. Practice has shown that in fact it heightens racial identity and consciousness, enhances demands for racial segregation, and polarises racial conflict to such a degree that it actually reduces race-mixing.

In order to justify this drive for race-mixing in terms that will appeal to sentimental pseudo-intellectuals, the race-mixers argue that Blacks will be 'disadvantaged' if left alone in their own schools and that they will do better if they are mixed with Whites. Underlying this theory is the implicit racialist assumption that Blacks are indeed educationally inferior!

LEGALITY

The legality of bussing is somewhat ambiguous owing to the constitutional division of powers between the legislature and the judiciary. The latter is even more amenable to minority interests than is the former, and has been in the forefront of attempts to break down racial barriers.

The Civil Rights Act of 1964 states that: "Nothing herein shall empower any official or court of the United States to issue any order seeking to achieve racial balance in any school by requiring the transportation of students or pupils from one school to another or one school district to another in order to achieve such a racial balance . . ."

N.A.A.C.P.

In June 1974, however, federal district Judge Wendell Arthur Garrity Jr. issued an order that brought forced bussing into operation in Boston. This was achieved as a result of massive pressure from minority groups, and has been defended on the basis of a highly tenuous interpretation of the U.S. Constitution.

Garrity has close connections with the sleazy Teddy Kennedy as well as with the influential National Association for the Advancement of Coloured People. The president of the NAACP was until very recently Kivie Kaplan who had 58 relatives holding $500 life memberships in the organisation. It is interesting to note that like other leading members of the N.A.A.C.P. Kaplan and his little tribe are not Negroes.

FIERCE OPPOSITION

Bussing is fiercely opposed by the overwhelming majority of the people of Boston. A referendum held in the Summer of last year asked: "Shall Boston public school children be assigned to a particular Boston school on the basis of race, sex or creed without the consent of their parent or guardian?" 2,282 people voted yes. 30,798 people voted no.

Since the imposition of bussing Boston's schools have been submerged into a welter of anarchy, terror and constant rioting. Everyone entering South Boston High School must pass through a metal detector in order to prevent weapons being taken into the classroom. Education has come to resemble a military operation.

Resistance to bussing is being organised by a group called R.O.A.R. (Restore Our Alienated Rights) which is campaigning for a constitutional amendment to ban forced bussing. It is receiving political support from a number of patriotic groups including the National Alliance.

What the people of Boston think of Garrity and his plans for race-mixing.

The harsher side of enforcing integration.

The most effective action being taken against enforced integration, however, is the simple withdrawal of White pupils from the inner city schools. They are either transferring to all-White private schools, or to suburban schools claiming residency by giving the address of a friend or relative as their own.

The irony is that before bussing to achieve racial integration was started three-quarters of the school population was White, but now it is predominantly Black!

FROM THE FRONT LINE

NATIONAL DIRECTORATE

THE successful candidates in this year's elections to the National Front's National Directorate were Martin Webster, Kingsley Read, John Tyndall, Malcolm Skeggs, Robin May, Dave Bruce, Richard Lawson, Andrew Fountaine and Richard Edmonds.

These joined Walter Barton, Blaise Wyndham, Anthony Reed-Herbert, Ted Arthurton, Andrew Coniam, Roy Painter, Carl Lane, Peter Holland, Peter Williams, Joan Sandland and Andrew Brons who did not have to seek election this year.

At the first meeting of the new National Directorate Kingsley Read was elected Chairman and Andrew Fountaine Deputy-Chairman, while Andrew Brons, Martin Webster, Carl Lane and Richard Lawson were elected to serve with them as the Executive Council.

(The ban against John Tyndall being a member of the Executive Council which was imposed by a Disciplinary Tribunal earlier this year was lifted before any elections took place.)

Martin Webster was elected Chairman of the Activities and Publicity Departments, Richard Lawson was elected Chairman of the Administration Department, Carl Lane was elected Chairman of the Finance Department, Peter Holland was elected Chairman of the Branch Development Department, Robin May was elected Chairman of a newly created Elections Department, and John Tyndall was elected chairman of the Policy Department.

Andrew Brons was elected Chairman of the N.F. Students' Association, but the N.F.S.A. – as well as the National Front Trade Unionists – was disestablished as a Department of the National Directorate. This merely alters their constitutional status, and allows a non-Directorate member to be appointed to chair them. No chairman has yet been appointed to head the N.F. Trade Unionists.

NATIONAL FRONT A.G.M.

IT was predicted that this year's Annual General Meeting of the National Front would possibly be the most important one in the movement's history, and that its outcome would decide the course of the movement for years to come.

In order to end once and for all certain matters of controversy within the party the National Directorate had allowed various motions to go forward to the A.G.M. for debate, even though the Directorate did not itself necessarily support them.

The motions in question concerned proposed changes to the N.F.'s Constitution, and took up most of the day's business.

The first constitutional amendment sought to do away with the safeguard requiring a two-thirds majority vote to change the constitution. This motion itself required a two-thirds majority to be passed. In the event this motion failed to get even a simple majority, being defeated by 555 votes to 481.

The second important constitutional amendment was a proposal to give the Chairman of the National Directorate supreme authority over the party. This was overwhelmingly defeated by 794 votes to 37.

The next resolution concerned increasing the qualifications needed to stand for the election to the National Directorate. A motion requiring two years Full Membership, service for a total of twelve months as an elected official of the party, and being an elected officer at the time of nomination was passed by 727 votes to 186.

The following resolutions concerned setting up further machinery for calling Emergency General Meetings, amending the process whereby motions go forward to the A.G.M., reducing the size of the Directorate, and having the Chairman and Deputy-Chairman of the Directorate elected separately from the other members of the Directorate. All these motions were defeated.

Another resolution concerned increasing membership subscriptions and creating further categories of membership. This resolution was also defeated.

In a fund raising speech at the end of the meeting Martin Webster said that not everyone would be happy with all the results and that while the issues debated could be debated again in the future, the membership had given a clear indication that we should get on with fighting for the policies for which the National Front was in existence.

The day's business was concluded with a speech from Kingsley Read who pointed out in strident tones that the National Front was not divided. His speech was applauded with an almost unanimous standing ovation.

HEMEL HEMPSTEAD

EIGHTY National Front members went to heckle an anti-Rhodesian meeting at Hemel Hempstead in Hertfordshire.

After a few minutes of heckling N.F. activist Sean O'Hogan demanded that the pro-Rhodesian point of view should be put from the platform. The chairman of the meeting first agreed but then changed his mind, somewhat annoying the N.F. members present.

When notorious White-hater Peter Hain tried to speak he was loudly booed, slow handclapped, and reminded of his connection with the Harris bomb case in which a Hain family friend murdered an innocent woman and maimed her grand-daughter for life.

A spokesman from the Z.A.N.U. Black terrorist organisation next tried to speak but was drowned out.

Sean O'Hogan then mounted the platform to the rapturous applause of the vast majority of the audience. Before he could begin to speak, however, Peter Hain tried to stop him. The Z.A.N.U. terrorist then gave a 'Black Power' clenched fist salute.

This provocation caused the body of the hall to erupt into chants of "White Power". A few local liberals fled the hall and the chairman closed the meeting.

The platform party stood up, linked arms and sang the Internationale, to which the N.F. members replied with the National Anthem.

This was too much for Peter Hain who had to be escorted from the hall. The meeting was then brought to a successful conclusion with a collection on behalf of Hemel Hempstead N.F. Group.

BLACKPOOL

National Front candidate Gordon Wooley won 3.7% of the vote in Blackpool's Marton Ward By-election.

WALLASEY

In a local Council By-election for Ward 5 of the Merseyside County Council, the National Front candidate, John Fishwick, won 5.4% of the poll. The previous time John fought this seat he got 3.6%.

LEICESTER

Leicester Branch National Front candidates Tony Reed-Herbert and Jack Calver beat Conservative and Liberal candidates who contested the Latimer Ward By-election.

Tony Reed-Herbert contested the District Council seat winning 898 votes (23%), Labour won 1,526 votes, the Conservatives won 843 votes and the Liberals won 590 votes.

Jack Calver contested the County Council seat winning 948 votes (24.5%) against Labour's 1,595, the Conservatives' 916 and the Liberals' 424.

These very impressive results were undoubtedly contributed to by a particularly well thought out election address concentrating on immigration, unemployment and inflation.

BLACKBURN

OVER 350 Blackburn residents crammed into the Regency Hall in Northgate, Blackburn, on October 15th to attend a National Front meeting on the Government's proposed new race laws. Interest amongst local people was so great that many had to be turned away at the doors.

The Chairman of the N.F.'s National Directorate, Kingsley Read said that the proposed new race laws must be smashed in the same way as the Trade Union movement smashed the Industrial Relations Bill. If such laws came into effect they would steal away our country from us and our children.

The meeting, which was chaired by Peter Comish, is the first of a series of meetings which the N.F. is organising in order to expose the Government's White Paper on race relations.

CAMDEN

CAMDEN Group of the National Front have a novel way of helping to boost their funds by supplying their members with 'piggy-banks' in which unwanted change can be deposited.

An attractive piggybank/collecting tin can be improvised by taking an empty beer can (which had a peel-off tab), wrapping something like the outside of a small policy statement around it, and securing it with a neat strip of sellotape.

The piggy-bank can easily be opened later with a can opener.

Full marks to Camden Group for this imaginative way of collecting a few more pounds for the British Nationalist cause. Every little helps.

PUBLICITY DEPARTMENT

Two new pieces of ammunition have been added to the National Front's armoury. One is a leaflet aimed at ratepayers and explains how interest payments on vast local authority debts are forcing up rates. This leaflet retails at £1.50 per 1,000. Postage is 62p for 1,000, 87p for 2,000, and £1.08 for 3,000.

The other piece of ammunition is a new edition of Nationalist News this time dealing with immigration. This is a 'hot item' sure to prove very popular! It costs £2.50 for 500 plus 75p postage. and £5.00 for 1,000 plus £1.08 postage.

Both these publications have been written by Dave McCalden, a staff writer on Britain First and National Secretary of the National Front Students' Association. Dave has previously been the author of numerous other leaflets including the revised Fed Up leaflet, Nationalist News No. 1, the mugging leaflet, one of the anti-Common Market leaflets, and all the N.F.S.A. leaflets.

HACKNEY

HACKNEY Branch activists Micky Philips and Bill Teale are doing a good job organising street sales of Britain First in the Borough. They regularly sell over 100 copies in the space of two to three hours from just one pitch.

ISLINGTON

FRANK NEWLAND'S by-election campaign got off to a flying start with a massive circulation of Britain First and a very successful public meeting. Results in next issue.

N.F. TRADE UNIONISTS

NATIONAL FRONT Trade Unionists turned a technical defeat into a good publicity coup after they were prevented from taking part in a march against unemployment in the West Middlesex area.

The N.F. Trade Unionists, who were the first people to begin the campaign against closures in the area, did a brisk trade in selling the 'British Jobs for British Workers' issue of Britain First.

Despite occasional difficulties caused by the Communist domination of the Trade Union bureaucracy, the N.F.T.U. is continually expanding and setting up more and more shop floor cells.

Any N.F. Trade Union members who have not yet contacted the N.F.T.U. are asked to do so immediately.

Cosmopolitan conspirators' conflab

AT THE end of October, over a dozen National Front activists picketed Chatham House, the home of the Royal Institute of International Affairs in protest against the first formal meeting of the Anglo-Soviet 'Round Table' group.

Although this particular body was activated after a trip to Moscow by Wilson and Callaghan earlier this year, it is but one of a long line of such outfits promoted by Chatham House and its 'American' counterpart, the Council on Foreign Relations. (In fact 'Round Table' was the original title of the Chatham House/CFR complex).

In keeping with the traditions of Chatham House, where according to Richard Gott of The Guardian "the atmosphere is thick with East European accents", no press reporters were admitted to the meeting and no press statements issued.

The 'British' delegation consisted of ten cosmopolitans selected by Chatham House. The delegation was led by Andrew Shonfield, director of Chatham House, and included Lord Kearton, chairman of the British National Oil Corporation, Michael Kaser, of St. Anthony's College Oxford, Andrew Knight, editor of The Economist, Roderick McFarquhar, Labour MP for Belper, Sir Eric Roll, chairman of S.G. Warburg, president of Political & Economic Planning and a director of Chrysler UK and the Bank of England, Hugh Scanlon president of the AUEW, Lord Shackleton, a director of Rio Tinto Zinc, Ian Smart, director of studies at Chatham House, Lord Trevelyan, chairman of Chatham House and John Pinder, a director of PEP.

The Soviet delegation were selected by Donald Maclean, the Foreign Office official who defected to Moscow 24 years ago. He now runs the British desk at the Moscow Institute of World Economic and International Relations, which looks after the U.S.S.R.'s relations with the EEC and the USA.

One of the results of the conference is believed to be that the USSR is to apply for membership of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT).

The NF demonstrators protested against the Soviet enslavement of Eastern Europe and the manipulation of national and international affairs by conspiratorial cliques.

National Front Students' Association

OBJECTIVITY BURIED

by DAVE McCALDEN

A short time ago Mrs. McBriar, of Bury National Front, was invited to speak to a group of sixth form boys who were doing an in-depth study on Race at Strand Grammar School, Whitefield.

However, shortly before Mrs. McBriar was to go to the school, she was informed that the headmaster Mr. Hudson, had cancelled the visit. Not to be outdone, Mrs. McBriar invited the boys to her home, where they were happy to tape an interview, along with Mr. & Mrs. Warren of Bolton NF and Mr. Bridge of Bury.

Being firmly dedicated to the traditional British principles of fair play and free speech, Mrs. McBriar was not prepared to see educational objectivity to go by the board. It's a pity the same could not be said for the staff of Strand Grammar School.

SUPERMAYOR

The NF's old friend in Hackney, Councillor Arthur Super has just come back from an official mayoral visit to Moscow. Mayor Super was exchanging greetings with the Krasnaya Presnya district soviet on behalf of Hackney, which is 'twinned' with the Moscow suburb. He was accompanied by two other 'representatives' of Hackney, Cllr. Denis Trim and Cllr. Shuja Shaikh. Whilst they were there they paid a visit to Lenin's tomb and also met up with some school students from two Hackney schools who were spending three weeks at a Pioneer camp 25 miles outside Moscow. The Pioneers are a para-military version of the Young Communists.

The youngsters were from John Howard School and Hackney Downs School, where Chanie Rosenberg, (Mrs. Tony Cliff) is a teacher. Ms. Rosenberg is the National Organiser of the International Socialist teachers' organisation Rank & File. However the trip behind the Iron Curtain to 'Stalinist' Russia was not organised by the Trotskyist Ms. Rosenberg, but by the school's Head of Russian.

BOOK REVIEW

GLOBAL FEINT

Global Reach: The Power of Multinational Corporations by Richard J. Barnet and Ronald E. Muller. (Simon and Schuster, New York, 1974.)

GLOBAL REACH is about the power of multinational corporations, and it has some interesting comments to make on the general theme. It points out, for example, that if we compare the annual sales of corporations with the gross national product of countries for 1973, we discover that General Motors is bigger than Switzerland, Pakistan and South Africa; that Royal Dutch Shell is bigger than Iran, Venezuela, and Turkey; and that Goodyear Tire is bigger than Saudi Arabia.

Staggering as these facts are, it is rather their implication that concerns us here. As the authors explain: "The men who run the global corporations are the first in history with the organization, technology, money and ideology to make a credible try at managing the world as an integrated unit."

In another highly illuminating passage the authors help to underline the way in which the 'nation-state' is being squeezed by a pincer movement between International Capitalism and International Communism: "Jacques Maisonrouge (an IBM executive) likes to point out that "Down with Borders", a revolutionary student slogan of the 1968 Paris university uprising – in which some of his children were involved – is also a welcome slogan at IBM."

There is undoubtedly much truth in what the authors have to say, but the people they deal with are essentially small fry in the struggle for world power. This is very likely connected with the fact that one of the book's two authors, Richard Barnet, is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations.

As students of the international capitalist complex will know, the Council on Foreign Relations grew out of one of the first projects to promote internationalism as a tool of a financial-academic elite.

To read Global Reach is worthwhile, but to regard it as the repository of the whole truth would be a dangerous illusion.

T.V. REVIEW

Open Door on the 'Psychohistorians'

SOME foreign sounding figures are grouped around a table planning and discussing how they will organise and manipulate the world's conflicts. They are obviously academics and some of them speak in broken English with thick mid-European accents. Are they a group of mad scientists in some late night horror film?

Well, not quite, for these academics were appearing on BBC 2's Open Door in which various groups are allowed to present their own programme. This was not fantasy but fact.

The programme which was first broadcast on Saturday, September 27th, was presented by Dr. Frances Pinter and Bram Oppenheim and was produced on behalf of the Conflict Research Society which is based at 158 North Gower St., London NW1.

The programme, which for some reason seemed disproportionately obsessed with Nazi Germany and the modern day Middle East situation, dealt with the analysis and channelling of conflict. The causes of conflict were divided into personal, dynamic and structural. Racial factors were not as such mentioned though perhaps this was one of the major keys to world history which for some reason the programme's presenters were not so keen to draw attention to.

The second part of the programme took the form of an 'open ended dialogue' between Professor Hilary Rose, ex-diplomat Ian Smart of the Royal Institute of International Affairs (Chatham House), Dr. Wolf Mendl of King's College, London, and the rather less razor sharp witted Dr. Chris Mitchell.

It was quite clear from the comments and the commentary that although the Society frowned on the conflict in Vietnam and Northern Ireland, they were not against conflict as such which was in itself neutral and the prerequisite for political change.

These 'psychohistorians' obviously grasped the Hegelian/Marxist dialectic of thesis, antithesis and synthesis.

Should the point be lost Dr. Hilary Rose outlined her militantly pro-Vietcong views and praised their "glorious victory".

The reactionary 'Right-winger' may contemptuously brush aside these late night BBC 2 programmes as a load of intellectual drivel.

Nationalists with an intelligent understanding, on the other hand, will realize that we are up against a whole horde of expert social scientists who draw on all the resources of psychology and economics, project these on a mathematical basis, and use the statistical extrapolations thus gained to forsee future trends. Forearmed with this knowledge they are then in a position to deploy their numbers as effectively as possible, and thus play their own part in influencing events through political conspiracy and social engineering.

Unless we give these people and their subject serious attention, study and analysis, we are going to be on the receiving end of history rather than its makers. Were we to end their virtual monopoly of this science, taking it up ourselves and adding the important but seldom mentioned factor of Race, we could ensure that we do not become a mere player in a game of political *Rollerball where the rules are determined by a hidden hand behind the scenes.

– RICHARD LAWSON

Rollerball* is a film about a game in a future world ruled by multinational corporations. By competing against each other people are diverted from questioning the System.

by members of the audience.

During the lunch-break, the venue was favoured with the attention of a National Front picket outside, which included Dave McCalden and Richard Lawson, the two Britain First journalists who were victimised by the NUJ executive and prevented from exercising their democratic right to belong to a Trade Union. Several delegates expressed their physical fear of the half-dozen picketers, although Denis McShane, an IS-orientated member of the NUJ executive took a swing at a man outside, who in fact turned out to be arguing with the N.F. picket!

After lunch Denis McShane waved a copy of Britain First about complaining of its exposure of the people behind the Labour Government's proposed new race laws.

McShane helped to underline that however much the Establishment press and its Communist hacks may try to suppress the truth about immigration, Britain First will continue to bring readers the facts. So long as Britain First survives and prospers, there will still be a free press in Britain.

THE NATIONAL FRONT

A PARTY OF NATIONALISM

The National Front is a party of British Nationalism, being pledged to work for the restoration of full national sovereignty for Britain in all affairs. It is a party of British Nationalism as it stands strongly for the preservation of Britain's national identity with respect to the composition of her people, her culture and her traditional way of life.

A PARTY OF DEMOCRACY

The National Front is a party of genuine democracy which belongs to its members.

Its governing body is its National Directorate, all officers of which are liable regularly to seek re-election by the full membership of the movement. The National Directorate is presided over by a Chairman, who is the chief official of the movement. The Chairman is elected by the members of the National Directorate every year, and can make no major decisions that do not carry the support of these members in the majority.

The NF seeks to promote in Britain a genuinely democratic political system – as distinct from the bogus democracy of the present whereby the wishes of the people are ignored in the making of major decisions and whereby power lies, not with the people themselves, but with the big moneyed interests who are able to control the political parties for their own ends.

THE COMMON MARKET

The National Front works for the withdrawal of Britain from the European Common Market.

THE BRITISH COMMONWEALTH

The National Front believes that Britain's destiny lies with the British Commonwealth, and resolves that every effort should be made to repair the damage done by recent governments to Commonwealth unity.

It believes, however, that the present multi-racial conception of Commonwealth is unrealistic, and that the Commonwealth should be reformed into a partnership of White countries with its main nucleus being the United Kingdom, Canada, Australia and New Zealand. Every effort should be made to persuade South Africa and Rhodesia to rejoin the Commonwealth.

THE ECONOMY

The National Front is neither capitalist nor socialist in the sense in which those terms are usually understood.

Broadly speaking, the NF supports private enterprise as the most dynamic and efficient form of industrial operation; but it advocates clearly defined limits to the function of private industry and commerce, determined by the national and public good.

Of all sections of the economy, that in which the NF supports the firmest public control is finance and banking. It regards the uncontrolled flow of money and credit into the economy, exercised by private financial interests, as the greatest single cause of inflation. It proposes state control of all credit, which will prohibit banks from issuing loans in excess of money on deposit, and grant to the Bank of England – under firm government supervision – sole right to create new credit for the economy, which will take into account yearly increases in actual national wealth measured in goods and services.

INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS

The NF supports the practice of profit-sharing in industry as the best incentive to all workers. It further supports workers' partnership schemes and advocates consultation between workers and management on profits as well as wages.

IMMIGRATION

The National Front upholds the wish of the majority of the British people for Britain to remain a White country and for this reason opposes all coloured immigration into Britain.

It further advocates the repatriation, by the most humane means possible, of those coloured immigrants already here, together with their descendants and dependants.

SOCIAL WELFARE

The National Front acknowledges it as an absolute public obligation to provide adequately for the very young, the sick and the disabled in terms of accommodation, food, clothing, warmth, health and hygiene services.

NORTHERN IRELAND

The National Front firmly supports loyalists in Northern Ireland in their determination to remain part of the United Kingdom and deplores the weakness of Conservative and Labour governments in defending those loyalists and in dealing with republican terrorism.

BRITAIN AND THE WORLD

The NF, as a British nationalist movement, respects the legitimate nationalism of other peoples, and sees mutual respect between nationally orientated states as offering a better opportunity for world peace than the internationalist ambition of world government.

The NF regards International Communism as the number one enemy of civilisation, and it repudiates the idea of 'detente' with the Communist world while the latter seeks only the destruction of the West.

At the same time the NF recognises that International Monopoly Capitalism is as great a menace to the freedom of the nations as International Communism, and that in fact the two represent different means to the same end: a world tyranny.
